To Whom It May Concern:

Mark Goldberg has been working as a freelance offline editor on Southern California Gas Company projects for the last five years. During that time he has worked with several different producers and directors and has contributed to at least half a dozen award-winning programs.

Mark is very talented in documentary editing and in cutting to music. He can work with little direction, often taking masses of documentary footage and forming it into a clear, concise, and artful program. One documentary, "Fire Control Cut and Tie-in," began as documentation of a rather boring 24-hour technical process, but was transformed by Mark into a fast-paced, interesting and informative training program. This project won a first place award from the International Television Association and is currently being used in a SONY seminar to demonstrate excellence in corporate production.

Mark is a bright, talented editor who is always a pleasure to work with. On behalf of myself and my entire staff, I recommend him to you highly.

Sincerely,

Susan M. Drange
